LEAFLETS FROM THE NOTEBOOK OF AN ARCHAEOLOGICAL TRAVELER IN ASIA MINOR (CLASSIC REPRINT)

Forgotten Books, United States, 2015. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Leaflets From the Notebook of an Archaeological Traveler in Asia Minor There is ever a charm about the quaint unchanging Orient. The traveler soon finds that his heart has been led captive by his romantic surroundings, and the chains which hind him Lo the East become riveted all the more firmly if he deal in ancient lore, if he tread the ground for the sake of ages, seeking in the sands of time for the footprints of men that are gone long centuries ago. He may have traveled in the East before; its scenes may all be familiar, but nevertheless he is always charmed anew as the steamer approaches its destined port. Everything around him breathes of poetry and romance; the beturbaned crowd with its brilliant costumes, and the life on the wharfs, in the streets and bazars, are ever new and strange. Nature, too, is so beautiful, the air so sweet, the sun so gorgeous, not obscurely bright, but one unclouded blaze of living light. The traveler is indeed in a new world, where, strange as it may seem, even the dirt charms, to say nothing of the dogs and the beggars. Outfit and Method of Scientific Travel in Turkey. The first work of the Archaeologist upon arriving in Asia Minor is to complete his outfit. This will be more or less elaborate according to the means at his disposal and the length, of time he proposes to he absent in the interior. There are no hotels in the interior - if I may except the caravansaries in the larger towns; and although one would rarely have to suffer the direst necessities in case...
